PROJECT CASE STUDY

December 2012

Hawksmoor

Customer: Du Boulay Contracts Ltd

Architect: Macaulay Sinclair

Hawksmoor is a meat eater's paradise, renowned for their top quality steaks, locally sourced ingredients and seasonal vegetables.

The original establishment is located at Spitalfields, London and only a short distance from where English born architect Nicolas Hawksmoor built the Christ Church Spitalfields between 1714 -1729. (After a huge restoration project back in 2015 AATi have since supplied numerous products to the Church- for more details see the AATi Spitalfields project case study).

Hawksmoor Manchester is pictured top right with other venues located at Seven Dials, Air Street near Piccadilly Circus, Knightsbridge and Guildhall.

AATi have supplied Du Boulay Contracts Ltd (www.duboulay.co.uk) cast metal anti-slip stair nosings for several Hawksmoor restaurants up and down the UK. Du Boulay Contracts Ltd is a specialist commercial fit-out contractor, based in London, who have worked closely with AATi on numerous projects.
